Description:

In the framework of the world's leading trade fair for animal husbandry EuroTier DLG e.V. in cooperation with the Russia Dairy Research Center (RDRC) organizes an international conference that revolves around the global trends on the dairy market. The conference will be supported from media agencies Agravery.com and The DairyNews.

In recent decades, we have observed a dynamic growth of milk production in the traditional exporting countries, an intensification of trade and capital investment flows as well as a true globalization of the dairy market. However, now we see another trend that is associated with the development of regional markets, the growth of milk production in countries that have traditionally been viewed as importers of dairy products.

Post-Soviet countries and states of Asia which have significant potential for development in the near future will be able to compete with the present global players of the dairy market. At this conference, the representatives of the agricultural government authorities, branch associations and experts of the future exporting countries will exchange views on the impact of global trends on the regional markets, to discuss the key issues of the industry and share experiences of exporting to third countries.
